Creative Waco's ARTPrenticeship program is being developed in collaboration with Waco ISD and local sponsors. It is a work experience based program with the goal of aiding Waco's young creatives develop workforce skills while creating works of public art that reflect the community's values.

Program Description

Creative Waco is hiring creative professionals to help lead projects, mentor apprentices (ages 16-21) and guide projects to successful completion. We are offering paid arts-based job training and creative opportunities for youth and professional teaching artists/creatives.

Teaching Staff work side-by-side with local youth to create public art and community impact projects. Teaching artists have the opportunity to build their portfolios, network with other local creative and mentor youth to complete a high-profile community project.

The majority of available jobs are in painting. Projects can also include illustration, digital imaging, drawing, photography, film, art therapy, and graphic design.

The ARTPrenticeship Program emphasizes team-teaching and encourages the development of each apprentice's work-readiness skills like time management, public speaking, teamwork, critical thinking and problem solving. The ratio of professional artists to apprentices is typically 1:4 for hands-on learning and is based on team size and budget. Teaching Staff are employed to mentor and manage dedicated groups of apprentice artists to produce high-quality works of art.

As in traditional apprenticeships, professional artists lead the project design and are greatly involved in the artistic outcome so that apprentices learn and improve artistic skills and techniques. Each project will have a Program Manager and a support staff made up of Teaching Artists and/or Assistant Teaching Artists and Design Consultants.
